

Wild Earth Himalayan Plant Alchemy Workshop and Open House

FEBRUARY 13, 2010

Fresh herbal products, complementary foot massage and organic appetizers infused with aromatic Tibetan incenses filled the sunny Saturday afternoon at Wild Earth's Himalayan Plant Alchemy Workshop and Open House. The event included stalls offering the latest Wild Earth creations from fresh moisturizers to personalized Himalayan amulets. Visitors also had a chance to become a member of Wild Earth and get to enjoy freshly made products delivered directly to them. The event was both entertaining and informative owing to its wide range of herbal creations to choose from. With "Himalayan Alchemy the Spirit of Rejuvenation" as the theme, the Wild Earth alchemists were there to guide visitors through the process of mixing sacred oils and herbs to create personal perfumes.

Wild Earth produces handcrafted Himalayan herbal skin care products based on indigenous Himalayan healing traditions.

Their products include herbal soaps, scrubs, muds, essential oils, massage oils, bath sachets and more. Wild Earth believes in sustaining Himalayan traditions, plants, communities and livelihoods. The trekkers' massage, one of their latest introductions especially created for trekkers and hikers, uses special techniques and healing ingredients for providing relief from fatigue.

For more information, visit: www.wildearthnepal.com